Notes: The Bellis Lake Natural Area covers a rough and sandy vegetated dune complex with several major ravines plus numerous ponds and wetlands. There is high erosion potential due to sandy soils. Vegetation includes jack pine (mainly) and aspen stands on uplands; black spruce, tamarack and dwarf birch in wetlands.

A forest fire went through Bellis North Natural Area in the spring of 2002, but approximately 40% of the site was untouched by the fire (Alberta Parks web site, 2012).
